A collection of four short screenplays transcending genre and the borders of good taste. Not for the comfortable. HAM EGGS- Noah is numb to the world. He's forced to deal with his mother's death, love, sex and the meaning of life...all while dwelling on a succulent plate of ham and eggs. STOCK-BOY SYNDROME- David is just trying to adjust to a

"sane society" will his job at the grocery store help or will his co-workers, boss and customers prove just how insane society really is? KAFKA LOST- An existential satire based on the work of Franz Kafka and Greek Tragedy. Kafka Armondo is destined to murder his father and have sex with his mother. He might even be a bug. His talking cat is of no help at all. U.S. FANTASY-A man kills his wife.A group of strangers develop a surreal bond in connection to the killing, which forces them to confront the dark underbelly of who they really are and what it might mean.
