Not note for note transcriptions but if you are capable of playing their music this will get you off to a good start. No tabs, just the music. I personally find that it's really necessary to have the recordings to hear how the written notes relate to the songs. Takes a lot of practice to get up to speed.2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. John McLaughlin and the Mahavishnu Orchestra (Mini Scores)By Robert RabinowitzI wish this book existed back in the late 70's/early 80's when I was trying to learn to play this stuff with nothing more than a turntable, lifting the needle on and off over and over trying to figure out what was going on. This book contains true to the album(s) arrangements of 28 classic Mahavishnu Orchestra pieces from "The Inner Mounting Flame", "Birds of Fire", "Visions of The Emerald Beyond" and "Between Nothingness Eternity". I've already used the arrangement of "Resolution" with my Jazz Quintet and I'm looking forward to trying some of the others. Just running through these pieces on my own is a pleasure. Great book!

What better way than to have the original score sheet from the composer? I have been learning some MO pieces by ear off and on for a few years. The fact that you get the parts for bass, violin, keys and even drums makes this an incredible value. I spent at least 2 hours trying to figure out the perfect 4th run at the very beginning of One Word and this shows exactly how it is played. The chords you will find in here are fantastic. Use this book with Ted Greenes Chord Chemistry and you will be astounding your friends and students with how wide you can stretch your fingers on some of these chords. As one guy wrote, the time signatures are out of this world, so get the recordings to hear how to play. Or if you have mastered a few dozen bebop riffs(heads) then you should be able to read and play through some of the more complex single note lines. I am surprised this book has not sold out, this is the closest thing to be able to play modern jazz as the Real Book.

(Transcribed Score). This book contains John's own "miniature scores" to 28 classic Mahavishnu songs. Titles: Awakening * Be Happy * Birds of Fire * Celestial Terrestrial * Commuters * Dawn * Dream * Earth Ship * Eternity's Breath * Faith * Hope * Meeting of the Spirits * Miles Beyond * Noonward Race * One Word * Opus I * Pastoral * Resolution * Sanctuary * Vital Transformation * and many more.
