John Donaldson : King's Indian Defense, Bayonet Attack before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised King's Indian Defense, Bayonet Attack:

Without a doubt one of the richest positions in chess is the position that occurs in the King's Indian Bayonet Attack after 1.d4 Nf6 2.c4 g6 3.Nc3 Bg7 4.e4 d6 5.Be2 0-0 6.Nf3 e5 7.0-0 Nc6 8.d5 Ne7 9.b4. Every year hundreds of top-level games are played with this line, even at the 1996 world chess championship match, but despite many practical tests, numerous theoretical works and computer analysis there are still many unsolved mysteries. 200 games selected and annotated by IM Donaldson. Algebraic notation. (I.C.E., 1996)
