Claude Debussy : La Boite a Joujoux, CD 136: Study score before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised La Boite a Joujoux, CD 136: Study score:

Composed in 1913 to a scenario for a Children's Ballet by Andr Hall, the music existed only in a piano score and 93 measures of orchestration upon Debussy's death in 1918. His former student and faithful interpreter Andre Caplet completed the orchestration the next year for the long delayed performance at Paris' Theatre-Lyrique de Vaudeville on December 10, 1919. This new, convenient format study score is a digitally enhanced reprint of the one issued by

Durand et Cie. in 1920.
