Carole Hayman, Lou Wakefield : Ladies Of Letters Go Green before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Ladies Of Letters Go Green:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Not quite what I was expecting...By Biffi love these ladies and their other work, but didn't really enjoy this item. It is mildly entertaining, but not laugh out loud funny.

The ladies turn to all things green in this latest collection of letters. Tying bricks to ballcocks, running cars on chip fat, and even emailing Al Gore to update him on the state of the local bottle bank, Irene and Vera are out to save the world.

About the Author Lou Wakefield is a writer, director and actor, starring in the BBC's Inside Out and YTV's The Refuge and appearing in countless theatre plays. Her directing career began in theatre with productions at the Royal Court and Liverpool's Everyman. She has since directed many hours of television drama including Desmond's, Coronation Street and Brookside. She wrote ITV's Firm Friends, starring Billie Whitelaw and Madhur Jaffrey, which won a Royal Society of Television Award, and wrote and directed Never Say Die for Channel 4, starring Irene Handl. She has also written numerous highly acclaimed novels, including Tuscan Soup and Sleeping Partners. Carole Hayman has written several novels, and also writes for TV, radio and film - including the hit drama series Rides for BBC1 and the comedy series The Refuge for Channel 4.
