I'm using it to improve children's auditory memory skills by listening to high interest stories. They need to visualize happenings and are then asked specific questions about details within the audio output. They are also asked to draw specific portions of presentations. This CD reminds me of the old radio programs my parents spoke about....before TV came along.1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. fantastic for long trips!By Mama LisaWe love this entire series! The stories are great and educational, the sound effects are excellent and the music is amazing! My boys, ages 3 and 6, have enjoyed these on trips for over a year now. I love that it teaches history, great values and engages their imagination. The sound is all there, but all the visuals have to come from the child's mind.2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Movies in my mind volume one - audioBy A CustomerThis recording is great. It is entertaining and had my daughters imagination working all the way through. We both enjoyed the stories and sound effects. It will improve any child's imagination and listening skills. We love it!!!

In a world of excessive visual stimulation from TV, computers, and video games, Movies in My Mind is an exciting new way to teach kids to listen. It's like watching a movie with your eyes closed. With original orchestral music, vivid sound effects and educational stories, Movies in My Mind weaves a rich audio tapestry that paints vivid pictures in your child's mind. Created by a child psychologist and an Emmy Award-winning composer, Movies in My Mind offers you a chance to turn the TV off and turn on your child's imagination!

From Publishers WeeklyDesigned as "movies without pictures," this new series of audio dramas combines old-fashioned storytelling, historical fiction and a feature-film-quality score (performed by a full orchestra) and sound effects. When six-year-old Chris Brown moves with his parents from the city to the country, his new surroundings seem incredibly boring. But his new neighbor Amy, also six, tells Chris about the magical man who used to live in Chris's house and the red barn full of his "crazy old wizard stuff" out in the backyard. Inside the barn the two kids discover an antique radio that not only tunes in Mentor the Magnificent (the barn's former owner) but becomes the gateway to time travel and adventure (much like Mary Pope Osborne's Magic Tree House books). This first installment whisks Chris and Amy to Captain Cook's ship Endeavor in 1770 and to 1932 Ireland, as Amelia Earhart makes her famous transatlantic flight. Versatile performer David Huddleston does a fine job as narrator, Mentor and several other characters. Actresses Tara Strong and Sandy Fox sometimes overdo it trying to sound youthful and animated, but young listeners will be won over by their general enthusiasm. Ages 3-up.
